Construction to cause some parking problems

Instruction to expand the south side of the Wilkinson Center will begin in the next two weeks, said Security Chief Robert Kelsch. To enable for construction materials, a portion of the faculty parking lot south of the Law School will be reserved for food service vehicles. Supplementary faculty parking will be available on the southeast side of the Health Center.

Disputed meals program begins

CAROL LEE TAYLOR

A controversial contract with a state catering firm goes into effect to service the Seniors Over 65 Mobile Meals program, but made last minute requests for additional equipment at Wednesday's county Commission meeting in supply today's meals.

In protest of the change, about 100 senior citizens staged a march Monday in front of Utah County's commission chambers. Many of the protesters feared the quality of service would decline and that several people working for the previous service would lose their jobs.

Late Tuesday, the ARA requested equipment from a county kitchen. An "emergency addition" was included on Wednesday's County Commission meeting's agenda to receive formal approval for ARA equipment requests. Some of the items requested included seven vans, hot and cold food transport containers, several pans, a meat slicer, two freezers and some office equipment.

Jim Hale, the county official in charge of the meal program changeover, said he was surprised to learn that the ARA did not have the necessary equipment to provide for today's meals.

"If the ARA doesn't get that equipment tonight we can't provide lunch for the senior citizens tomorrow," said ARA representative John Murphy during the commission meeting.

The Commissioners agreed to loan some of the equipment to the Mountaintain Association of Governments who in turn will loan the equipment to ARA for the 30 days. Lynn Davis, a county attorney, said ownership of the equipment was in doubt, but they acted on the assumption it was county property and loaned it to Mountaintains.

"We want to do everything we can to expedite this project," Commissioner Karl Lyman said. "If it takes all or part of the equipment on this list we want to cooperate."

The commission decided to loan the ARA only "the most important items" on their list and excluded some scoops, a meat slicer, two work tables, the freezers and some office equipment.

EPA, U.S. Steel near agreement on controls

An agreement between the U.S. Steel Corp. and the Environmental Protection Agency over pollution controls for the Geneva plant is getting closer, according to Utah state officials.

After a briefing session Tuesday with Gov. Scott M. Matheson and David Bigler, public relations director for U.S. Steel's western region, Utah Environmental Health director Alvin E. Rickers said the agreement is "quite close." But U.S. Steel is still evaluating some of the wording, he said.

While negotiations continue, the Utah County Commission has agreed to underwrite $33 million in bonds for the plant. A spokesman from the Public Affairs office of U.S. Steel stated the $33 million will pay for particular portions of the facilities necessary for controlling emissions from the plant.

Jack Bollow, public affairs director for U.S. Steel in Salt Lake City, and Rickers agreed the bonds won't have any ultimate effect on the negotiations.

Bigler said there are still some aspects of the agreement the corporation is concerned about. The concerns involve open-ended aspects of the consent decree that would make the corporation vulnerable to future costs. He could not give the specific amount U.S. Steel will have to pay for the pollution controls. He said it was within the amount discussed previously which was $80 million.

Utah County Commissioner Jerry Bradshaw said the agreement to underwrite $33 million in low interest bonds for the plant will enable U.S. Steel to pay back the bonds with company profits. According to the agreement, the county will not be liable for the bonds if they are not paid back by U.S. Steel.

Iranians debate over U.S. dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A leading ayatollah put the bodies of eight U.S. commandos at the center of a new political tug-of-war in Iran Wednesday, saying Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini or the Revolutionary Council, not President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr, must decide whether the Americans' remains should be sent home.

As Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti set out these conditions, two Catholic clergymen were visiting the Tehran morgue where the bodies were being kept.

The two — Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capudji and papal nuncio Monsignor Annibale Bugnini — prayed and sprinkled holy water over the bodies, remains of eight servicemen killed in an aircraft collision when the attempt to rescue the U.S. Embassy hostages was aborted last Friday in the Iranian desert.

Iran's domestic troubles, meanwhile, flared into terrorist violence in London.

Three armed Iranian Arabs, supporters of autonomy for Iran's Arab-populated southwest, invaded the Iranian Embassy in London and took some 20 hostages, police said. Unconfirmed reports said they were demanding freedom for political prisoners in Iran.

Iran's 53 American hostages spent their 179th day in captivity, some of them now reportedly scattered to five Iranian cities besides Tehran.

After the Americans' bodies were recovered over the weekend, Beheshti said the Council would decide their disposition. His party's newspaper called for a barter — the bodies in exchange for the release of some $8 billion in Iranian assets ordered frozen by President Carter last November.

Addressing a Tehran news conference Wednesday, Beheshti said Iran does not want money for the bodies. But he said the repatriation of the remains "must be decided either by the Islamic Revolution" or the Revolutionary Council.

When a reporter suggested that keeping bodies is against Islamic morality, Beheshti replied, "Islam is based on the morality of humanity and nothing has been conducted but Islamic morality."

Arab militants storm embassy

LONDON (AP) — Three "Arab power" militants took over the Iranian Embassy on a quiet London back street Wednesday and threatened to kill their 20 hostages unless Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime frees 91 political prisoners held in Iran's Arab-populated oil belt.

If the Tehran government does not meet their demand by noon Thursday, the gunmen said, they will blow up the building.

The three terrorists, reportedly armed with submachine guns or carbines, identified themselves as Arabs from Khuzestan who support autonomy for that region of southwest Iran.

The British Broadcasting Corp., which received the ultimatum in a telephone call from the embassy, said the gunmen reported one of their hostages had been wounded and they wanted a doctor. The victim was not identified.

Witnesses had said they heard gunfire as the terrorists forced their way into the building at 6:30 a.m. EDT.

The only other casualty reported was a woman captive who was released in late afternoon suffering from what police said was severe shock. She was carried out on a stretcher and rushed off by ambulance.

Police said her release left 20 hostages, including a British police guard. The top Iranian diplomat in London, Charge d'Affaires Gholan-Ali Afruz, also was reported among those held captive.

The BBC said the terrorists also demanded a safe flight out of Britain for themselves and their hostages.

Police later confirmed the gunmen's demands were similar to those reported by the BBC. And "there is certainly a threat of hostages being killed," Deputy Assistant Police Commissioner John Dellow told reporters.

He also said, "Twenty-four hours has been mentioned."

Orem Mayor James E. Mangum presents Curt Brinkman with a plaque to commemorate his Boston marathon victory. Brinkman beat the world wheelchair marathon record by more than 30 minutes.

Orem honors marathon champion

By DAVE KUHN

Calling him a "national hero" and "an example of courage and dedication to all Americans," Orem Mayor James E. Mangum honored Curt Brinkman, 26, during Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Brinkman, an Orem resident, was presented with a plaque by Mayor Mangum commemorating his win in the wheelchair division of the prestigious Boston Marathon last week.

The mayor also noted that Brinkman's accomplishment was even more remarkable because he is a diabetic. In order to keep his blood sugar level constant during the race, Brinkman drank from two bottles of Tang strapped to his wheelchair.

Brinkman, a BYU graduate, was the first person to cross the finish line in Boston, beating the first runner, Bill Rodgers, by over 17 minutes. In the effort, Brinkman smashed the previous wheelchair record by more than 30 minutes.

During the ceremony at Orem Civic Center, Brinkman expressed his appreciation for the local support he has received, saying that people really encouraged him during his training.

Brinkman, who works part-time at the Orem Recreation Center, trains 17-20 miles a day. During the ceremony, Brinkman showed the commission the burn marks on his arm, where the 26-inch rubber wheels on his wheelchair rubbed during the race. "It proves I did the whole thing," he said.

U.S. vetoes U.N. resolution

UNITED NATIONS — The United States vetoed a Tunisian resolution Wednesday night that would have had the U.N. Security Council call for a Palestinian state.

The vote was 10-1 with four abstentions. The resolution got one more than the nine votes needed to put it through under normal circumstances, but the negative U.S. vote, which was expected, killed it.

Permanent council members Britain and France abstained, as did Portugal and Norway. Voting for the proposal were permanent members China and the Soviet Union, as well as Tunisia, Niger, Zambia, Mexico, Jamaica, Bangladesh, the Philippines and East Germany.

The American veto was in line with President Carter's public position against Palestinian statehood.

FBI reports sharp rise in crime

WASHINGTON — Crime in the United States was up 8 percent in 1979, its sharpest rise since 1975, according to preliminary data released Wednesday by the FBI.

Nationwide, the increases were higher in violent than in property crime. Violent crime was up 11 percent from the year before, with forcible rape and robbery each up 12 percent and murder and aggravated assault each up 9 percent.

Property crime increased 8 percent, with a 10 percent increase in motor vehicle theft, a 9 percent rise in larceny-theft and a 6 percent rise in burglary.

The 8 percent over-all increase compared to a 2 percent increase during 1978, a 3 percent decrease during 1977 and no change during 1976. In 1975, total reported crimes jumped 9.8 percent.

More refugees arrive in U.S.

KEY WEST, Fla. — More waves of refugees mixed with convicts released from Cuban prisons swarmed ashore here Wednesday as the Carter administration worked to negotiate an airlift to replace the illegal boat convoy between the United States and Cuba.

More than 5,000 Cuban refugees have sailed to Florida since the "Freedom Float" began last week. In the past two days alone, about 1,500 refugees checked in at the swamped processing center here.

Coast Guard air surveillance Wednesday showed that dozens of ships had set out from the Cuban port of Mariel to take advantage of calm waters in the Florida Straits after three days of rough weather. An additional 200 boats left Key West on Wednesday, bound for Cuba.

Lance found innocent of fraud

ATLANTA — Former budget director Bert Lance, whose forced departure from the federal government left President Carter close to tears, was found innocent Wednesday on nine counts of bank fraud.

The jury deliberated nine days. At one time, as many as 10 of the 12 jurors voted to convict Lance on two counts of making false financial statements to a bank, one juror said after the acquittal.

Jurors were unable to agree on those charges and one other. U.S. District Judge Charles Moyer declared a mistrial on the three counts but said he would consider entering acquittals after both sides submit briefs.

Lance was "delighted" by the outcome but said the two-year investigation and 16-week trial were "a total, abject and ridiculous waste of taxpayers' money."

Orem hearings seek local input

A 13-member committee will conduct public hearings during May to get input from citizens concerning a possible change in Orem City government.

Orem faces a switch in government when its population reaches 50,000. At present, Orem has about 58,000 residents, according to the city manager's office. Under state law, a special election must be held to determine whether voters want to retain the present council-manager form of government, or if they want to change to a council-mayor organization. If the election is not held, the government must automatically change to a council-mayor form, similar to Salt Lake City.

The hearings are held to determine residents' attitudes toward a change, as well as answer questions. The committee will make recommendations to the Orem City Council on which form of government to adopt. Recommendations will be based on residents' input. If the recommendation is passed by the council, it will appear on a special voters' referendum in September or October.

Orem residents are encouraged to attend the hearings, which will be held at elementary schools in Orem during the first three weeks of May. The first hearing will be Thursday at Scera Park Elementary School, 450 S. 400 E., Orem.

Additional hearings will be Tuesday, May 6, at Bonneville Elementary School, 1245 N. 800 W.; Friday, May 9, at Cherry Hill Elementary School, 250 E. 1650 S.; Tuesday, May 13, Vineyard Elementary School, 950 W. 800 S.; and Wednesday, May 14, at Cascade Elementary School, 160 N. 800 E.

The hearings will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at the schools. Orem residents should attend the hearing for their area; however, if they are unable to attend, they may go to another meeting.

SDA appointments okayed

By NANCY HARRIS
Universe Staff Writer

The reappointment of Reed Markham and Bryan Jackson as president and vice president of the Student Development Association, criticized by past ASBYU President David Lister, was said to be the logical choice by current ASBYU President Jeff Duke.

"I think Markham and Jackson are the logical choice," Duke said. "They've proven their ability to function excellently in that capacity."

After understanding that a shortage of time made finding and interviewing qualified students for the job difficult, Duke, along with Lister, a Dean of Student Life representative, the director of Annual Giving and BYU's development director, approved the reappointment recommended by Robert K. Thomas, academics vice-president.

According to Duke, the committee also decided that in future years such reappointments would be subject to disapproval by Student Life.

Mike Thomas, SDA adviser, recommended that the reappointment of past SDA officers take place this year for the first time because he felt they did an outstanding job even though they missed much of the organizing last summer.

"These young folks didn't get the opportunity to do organizing and planning," Thomas said. "We feel they deserve that chance."

Markham, who is currently serving an internship under Chief Justice Warren Burger, was not available to comment on his reappointment, but Jackson said he felt the position gave SDA a chance to make BYU's fund raising "better than ever."

Jackson, along with Lori Sansom, was chosen by Markham to serve as vice president for the 1980-81 school year, with Karen Koning as executive secretary. All were members of the SDA staff last year.

The ability of the SDA president to choose all of the other officers was criticized by Lister.

"That's a lot much power," he said. "There's a lot of money involved."

Duke said that the procedure was questioned by the committee and has been changed for future years.

Oakland taps Wilson in pro draft

Playing on the same team as Dan Pastorini, David Humm and Jim Plunkett is going to be "very challenging," according to Marc Wilson, first-round pick of the Oakland Raiders.

Consensus: all-American Wilson was expected to go higher in the first round, but when the Raiders took their turn as the 16th team to draft,

Wilson was still available. The BYU quarterback said he would have been disappointed if not selected in the opening round.

"It's going to be very challenging for me," Wilson said as he reviewed the list of quarterbacks on the Oakland roster. "I guess Pastorini just can't get rid of me," Wilson said.

Pastorini started ahead of former BYU star Gifford Nielsen at Houston last year before being traded to Oakland.

"The draft is a crazy thing," Wilson said when asked if his pride was hurt when San Francisco did not make him the draft's second pick. "I'm very happy to have gone where I've gone."

Should the Raiders

remain in Oakland, instead of moving to Los Angeles, Wilson will be near his home in Seattle, Wash., where he was reached for comment.

The 6-5 quarterback said Oakland, along with Tampa Bay, was among the teams to have talked to him the least.

Wilson said he had a "sneaky hunch" San Francisco was going to trade away its rights to make the draft's second pick. Most sources had expected San Francisco to take Wilson if they had not been able to work out a trade.

The 49ers traded with the New York Jets for rights to the 13th and 20th picks. The Jets then took wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas. New York already has one of the NFL's best deep threats in Wesley Walker and Jones gives them a second.

Wilson was asked to report to the Raiders' camp May 7.

Another Cougar, defensive end Mat Mendenhall, was selected by the Washington Redskins in the second round, making him the 55th pick overall.

Wilson was the first quarterback selected in the draft and one of only three to go in the first three rounds. Meanwhile, Heisman Trophy winner Charles White, considered small at 184 lbs., was not selected until Cleveland made him the 27th pick. By that time five other running backs had been taken.

Despite having quarterback problems last year, the Detroit Lions used the draft's No. 1 selection to take Oklahoma running back Billy Sims. Sims was a Heisman Trophy winner as a junior. The Lions waited until the fourth round to take a quarterback, opting for Utah State's Eric Hipple.

Two other Aggies, defensive end Rulon Jones and tailback Rick Parros, went in the early rounds, both to Denver.

Sims and his agent are reportedly asking for a six-year, $4.5 million contract, more than the Lions want to pay. After Sims and Jones, the first to go were Anthony Muner, an offensive tackle from Southern California, to Cincinnati; Bruce Clark, a defensive tackle from Penn State, to Green Bay; and Curtis Dickey, a running back from Texas A&M, to Baltimore.

The defensive backs and safeties attracted the most attention in the opening round. The first to go was Colorado's Mark Haynes, who went to the New York Giants.

Sideline Chatter

The WAC announced 1980's selections for player and coach of the year in both basketball and football about 10 days ago. The winners:

—Marc Wilson (BYU) was named player of the year in football.

—LaVell Edwards (BYU) was named coach of the year in football.

—Danny Ainge (BYU) was selected player of the year in basketball.

—Frank Arnold (BYU) was picked as coach of the year in basketball.

Baseball
Keith Hagman of New Mexico is batting .365 with 54 runs, 69 RBIs, 19 doubles, 15 triples and seven homers. Not bad. And the best newcomer among collegiate pitchers may well be Chuck Crim of Hawaii who is 10-0 with 58 strikeouts and a 2.45 ERA.

Boxing
Danny Lopez, who got his start in boxing while growing up in Utah County, will try to regain the world featherweight title against Salvador Sanchez June 21 in Salt Lake City.

Golf
The number one high school prospect in the nation, according to BYU Golf Coach Karl Tucker, is Rick Fehr of Seattle, and Fehr has signed a letter-of-intent to attend BYU. The Cougars have also signed California Junior Champion Robert Meyer of Sacramento, Calif.

Football
Football News has reported that there is talk in the wind of a new eight-team league to compete with the NFL.

Basketball
For those who haven't already heard, Danny Ainge was named to the Academic All-America squad for 1980. A communications major, Ainge has a 3.05 GPA. Also on the list were Utah State's Dean Hunger and the LDS star of the UCLA squad, Kiki Vandeweghe.

New Mexico's sensational Kenny Page finished fourth in the NCAA Division I scoring race. Page averaged 28.0 points per outing.

Colorado State fired Jim Williams, who had coached at that school for 24 years. A heated dispute with a WAC official had led to Williams' suspension during the last three games of the season. Then came the official dismissal.

Gymnastics
Most fans knew the seventh-place finish by BYU's women gymnasts marked the first time the Cougars have cracked the nation's top 10, but many might be unaware how unexpected it was. "We're the only team I know of to come literally off the charts into the top 10 this year," Coach Rod Hill said.

And now the Cougars, who graduated only one individual, have signed another top prospect, Donna Chacola of Huntington Station, N.Y. Chacola is a Class I gymnast.

Jogging
Utah Gov. Scott Matheson has declared Saturday "Girl Scouts on the Run Day." The Girl Scouts are teaming with Coca-Cola to sponsor a 5,000 meter run Saturday in Provo. The run starts at Riverside Park (1260 W. 500 North) at 9 a.m. Race sponsors say Cosmo will be there. Paul Cummings will be the starter and Sean Conrad will M.C.

Volleyball
Last year's coach of the year in the International Volleyball Association was Byron Shewman. At the time, he coached Wilt Chamberlain for the Tucson Sky. This year neither Shewman or Chamberlain will return to the Sky. Shewman is the new coach of the Salt Lake Stingers and Chamberlain was dropped from Tucson's negotiation list when he failed to come to terms.

Pam Miller wins tourney

Cougar golfer Pam Miller sprayed a few shots wide of the target in the final round of the Oregon State Invitational Tuesday, but she held her lead and coasted in with a four-over-par 78 to win medalist honors in the 36-hole tournament.

Shooting rounds of 72-78 152 on the 5,800-yard Corvallis Country Club course, Miller edged Sue Saunders of the University of Washington by two strokes. Saunders carded 78-76 154.

Mary Lou Muldur, Washington, winner of the BYU invitational two years ago, came in third with 76-80 156.

Other BYU scorers were: Chris Lehmann, 82-80 162; Carla Duncan, 79-85 164; Nancy Bradbury, 85-87 172; and Tara Batcheller 87-90 177.

The University of Washington took home the team trophy by posting the low score of 628 strokes. BYU was second with 648 strokes and Oregon State trailed with 719.

Netters winners

The BYU women's tennis squad has already put the wraps on the AIAW Region VII team championship which is determined by the league standings. The Cougars had clinched the title with a 10-0 record going into a match with Idaho State.

In addition to the championship team, three individuals and one doubles team are allowed to represent Region VII in the AIAW nationals in June.

Part-time Research Assistant

We need a campus representative to assist us in developing mailing lists of selected senior and graduate students. Integrity, perseverance and reliability required. Would prefer someone who can work for us in this capacity for several years to come. No "sign to rights" required. But certainly attractive if you need additional money to help meet rising expenses. If you are interested in learning more about this opportunity, fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

I am interested in learning more about being your campus representative. Please furnish me with pertinent details.

Golfers aim to win title

Final cuts have been made for BYU's men's golf team as it prepares to tee up in Scottsdale, Ariz., for the eighth annual Sun Devil-Phoenix Thunderbird Collegiate Tournament, May 1-3.

Only twice in the tourney's history have the Cougars failed to snare the crown. Last year, both BYU and Bobby Clampett finished third.

This year, the Cougars will confront challenges from defending champion UCLA (Las Vegas, Nev.) and USC (seventh).

The six players who will represent BYU through the Western Athletic Conference Championships (May 5-10 in San Diego, Calif.) are Clampett, Barry Willardson, Tom Costello, Dick Zokol, David DeSantis and Keith Clearwater.

With Willardson coming on strong, Tucker says he is more assured of his team's competitiveness. Willardson was medalist in the Cougar Classic and placed third earlier in the season at the Rebel Classic in Las Vegas.

Clampett, of course, is the two-time All-American and 1979 Collegiate Golfer of the Year. The 20-year-old junior recently returned from competing in the Master's.

To date, the Cougars have won seven tournaments this season and have participated in 11 classics.

Sweet potato high in nutrients

The sweet potato may replace the "Green Revolution" with the "Brown Revolution."

"When you get your required amount of calories with the potato, you've met almost every other nutritional requirement, except that you are on the low side with protein," says Dr. Albert E. Purcell. Dr. Purcell, a professor of food science at Brigham Young University has been researching the sweet potato for 15 years. His research suggests, "The sweet potato can nourish more people per acre than any other crop."

"There are two problems associated with the sweet potato as the food crop of the future," said Dr. Purcell. First, the sweet potato has a bad image as a poor person's food. Second, the sweet potato can vary from bland to sweet taste depending on genetics, care and weather conditions.

For two years Dr. Purcell has worked on making the sweet potato more palatable with the use of a gas chromatograph. This machine detects 100 compounds of the sweet potato, some of which have no aroma. A person referred to as a "sniffer" sits in front of the machine and records which compounds he can smell and to what degree. Since the tongue can only detect four tastes, the aroma of a food plays a large part in the palatability of that food.

Dr. Purcell plans to complete his study by 1983 and has hopes of farmers implementing the cross-bred sweet potato seven to eight years after that.

Lawsuit filed against nursing home; false claims and abuses charged

A suit filed in 8th Circuit Court charges a Lincoln nursing home with 23 felony and misdemeanor counts including filing false claims, forcible sexual abuse and abuse of a disabled adult. The preliminary hearing is set for Monday at 9 a.m.

The suit, filed by the State Bureau of Medicaid Fraud, names owners Kent F. Beagley, F. Craig Beagley, Maureen Beagley, Cary K. Beagley and Jeffrey C. Beagley for acts allegedly occurring from 1977 to 1979.

The suit includes ten counts of false claim, six counts of theft by deception, four thefts of nursing home funds, two counts of abusing a disabled adult and one count of forcible sexual abuse.

The Medicaid bureau said the reason for the delay in filing the suit is because several complaints have just recently surfaced. The department said it is currently investigating other Utah County rest homes.

"I don't agree with their whole theory of prosecution," said Robert M. McRae, the nursing home's defending attorney.

Tom Proctor, director of the state's Medicaid fraud department, said their main job is "trying to help those who generally can't help themselves. Most health care directors are genuinely concerned about their patients, but there are always a few who abuse the system and the people themselves. That's why we're here."

There are 29 other states which use have a federally-funded Medicaid fraud department. Proctor said the government would soon like to see one in every state.

The Utah State Bureau of Medicaid Fraud operates under a 90 percent grant from the federal government. After three years, the federal funds will be dropped and the state will be on its own.

Research proves exercise deters heart attacks, clots

BOSTON (AP) — Exercise, even if relatively jog or exercise apparently helps the blood destroy dangerous clots, a discovery that may explain why people who work out have less heart disease and fewer strokes, researchers say.

Doctors recently noticed that those who regularly jog or exercise have healthier hearts than the general population, but they were not sure what happens inside the body to protect that vital organ.

The latest study, done at Duke University Medical Center, found a dramatic increase in the release of proteins that attack blood clots when people are in good physical shape.

Dr. R. Sanders Williams said more studies must be done before scientists are convinced of his theory.

Williams said his group may have found an "important mechanism" to lower chances of suffering heart disease, but said "It would be overstating the case to say that we have found a vitally important effect of physical conditioning that clearly prevents heart attacks."

The study, published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, measured the effects of 10 weeks of mild physical exercise on 69 healthy adults who had not been exercising regularly.

At the outset of the experiment, doctors tested the volunteers by putting inflatable high blood pressure, measuring bands on their arms.

This cut off the flow of blood in the veins and mimicked a blood clot.

The results were recorded, then the men and women spent 10 weeks mildly exercising for an hour three times a week.

The doctors found that after the 10 weeks, the lining of the volunteers' blood vessels released greatly increased quantities of proteins called plasminogen activators. Plasminogen dissolves fibrin, a stringy protein that helps form blood clots.

In an accompanying editorial, Dr. Ralph Paffenbarger Jr. of Stanford Medical School wrote: "It is no longer difficult to accept the view that exercise has a direct and favorable association with processes important to cardiovascular health."

Members of the modern dance company Wimmer, Wimmer and Dancers will present a concert Saturday in the 'Villa Theater' in Springville.

Dancers end touring with 'Villa' concert

Wimmer, Wimmer and Dancers Company concludes its nationwide tour with a performance at the Villa Theater in Springville Saturday at 8 p.m.

An innovative modern dance company from Salt Lake City, Wimmer, Wimmer and Dancers is directed by Lynn Wimmer, a former member of the Repertory Dance Theater of Salt Lake City.

The concert will include three original works, all choreographed by members of the dance company.

The first half of the dance program will be "Dances of the Land", choreographed by Miss Wimmer. The dance is inspired by the creator's travel experiences in remote island villages of Greece.

This work utilizes authentic music from Greece, Turkey, Macedonia and Georgia, USSR. The piece depicts the centuries old work methods and life styles that exist in these communities.

"My Brother's Keeper", also choreographed by Miss Wimmer will follow.

Based on John Steinbeck's famous novel about two migrant workers, "Of Mice and Men," "My Brother's Keeper" explores the relationship between George, a small, intelligent man, and Lenny who is gentle, oversized and mentally retarded.

"Celebration," the final work, is a pure movement dance choreographed by company member Martin Kravitz.

A mood of joy is created by the pairs and large ensembles of dancers. The dance is set to Tomaso Albinoni's "Sonata in G."

The company will offer master classes in intermediate-advanced modern dance and children's dance at the Art City Creative Dance and Gymnastics Studio, in Springville.

The studio is owned by Ann Brown, who received a masters degree in dance at BYU.

The three classes offered at the modern dance studio are for boys ages 3-7, children ages 8-11 and an intermediate-advanced class for adults.

'Hitch' dead

After more than half a century of terrifying audiences with his suspense thrillers, Sir Alfred Hitchcock died Tuesday at his home in Bel Air, Calif.

The 80-year-old British film director was responsible for more than 50 films, including the suspense classics, "Thriller" and "Psycho".

His television series held audiences spell-bound during the 1960s and his famous profile will be well remembered. The cause of death was not disclosed.

Clayson named Poet of the Year

By KIM KAATMAN
Entertainment Editor

LaVerde Morgan Clayson, Provo poet, has been named Poet of the Year by the Utah State Poetry Society for her book, "Furrows of Renewal." Mrs. Clayson received the award Saturday in the Salt Lake City Ramada Inn at the society's annual awards festival.

Mrs. Clayson explained that "Furrows of Renewal" is the result of six years work. "I submitted the book each year to the Utah State Poetry Society contest. Each time I entered the book and received criticism I considered the critiques and rewrote the book. This year I won the competition."

"Furrows of Renewal" is a mixture of poems about Mrs. Clayson's relatives, love, death and courage.

Mrs. Clayson's writing career began ten years ago. She said, "I had a friend who wrote poetry and she encouraged me to try. I told her poetry wasn't my bag but wrote a poem anyway — mostly to please her. I sent my poem to the Utah State Poetry Society and they returned it as 'ready to publish.' Encouraged by this, I sent my poem to 'Mother's Manual.' They bought it for six dollars, and I have been writing ever since."

The Utah State Poetry Society operates from funds donated by the United States Poetry Society, Utah Arts Council, the National Endowment of the arts and by private contributions.

"Sometimes people say, 'I don't have any writing talent.' But I wonder how they know that if they've never tried to write? If my friend hadn't encouraged me I wouldn't have started. Now I see poetry in everything around me."

Of the 190 awards given to 15 chapters, Provo won 24.

Haskins explains the art restoration process used on this painting by J.H. Roberts.

Restored art works on display in HFAC

By LOU ANDERSON
Universe Staff Writer

The first BYU Historic Conservation and Restoration Art Show has opened a month-long run in the Harris Fine Arts Center. The show features paintings which have been restored at BYU during the past two years.

Scott Haskins, BYU conservator of fine arts said, "This show is the largest of its type ever held in the Rocky Mountains and the most years."

United Waterbed Your discount waterbed store 741 N. State, Orem 225-2745

significant in Utah history. Portraits of Joseph and Hyrum Smith, B.H. Roberts, and scenes of early Mormon life by C.A.A. Christensen and Dan Weggeland are among the paintings which have been renovated.

Haskins explained one example of a conservation project done on the painting "Teekaters" by Dan Weggeland. "The work originally came to us in 1979 for cleaning. Investigation revealed several previous attempts had been made at restoring the painting and the restoration work was not the same as the original. Infrared and ultraviolet photography revealed the lost portions of the painting and we were able to remove the overpainting, touch up minor details and repair the damaged parts."

According to Haskins the goal of restoration is not to make new art work duplicate the original, but to bring as much of the original painting as possible to the surface and then prevent further deterioration. In the case of the Weggeland painting, over half of the original painting was not visible when it arrived in the lab. The restoration process revealed additional figures and some very detailed brushwork which had been lost.

The Conservation Lab, located in the Fletcher Building, is jointly sponsored by the BYU Department of Art and Design and the LDS Church Historical Department. Haskins is the only full-time conservator at BYU but has several part-time assistants. He has had extensive experience in art restoration and has worked on reviving many works, some over 3500 years old.

The exhibit will be on display until May 28 in the main gallery of the HFAC. Tour groups should contact the Conservation Lab.

Is Your Education Blowing You Away?

- When you leave your classes, can you:
 - Recall 100% of the class material?
 - Discuss the important points of the lesson?
 - Remember your assignment?
 - Remember your name?
- Do your present classes:
 - Stimulate a greater hunger for light and truth?
 - Arouse curiosity about the subject?
 - Kill curiosity about the subject?
 - Stimulate a greater hunger for a Big Mac?
- When you come from your classes do you feel:
 - Greater desire and ability to contribute to the welfare of mankind?
 - Greater ability to help yourself?
 - Greater desire to jump off a cliff?
 - Greater desire and ability to push your teacher off a cliff?

Make your education your own by enrolling in General Studies 100. Instead of repeating information for the teacher and then forgetting, discover how to capture knowledge, reshape it, and share it. Learn how to be in the system but not of the system.

Students in General Studies 100 will attend forums and participate once a week in classroom learning experiences based on the forum topics. It will be a 1½ credit pass/fail course. To register, attend and add one of the classes listed below during the first week of Spring Term.

DISCOVERY OF THE MUMMY OF QUEEN TIYE

Gold Coffin of Thuya
Father of Queen Tiye

Because of time constraints, the initial lecture will emphasize the Pharaohs and Queens of the XVIII Dynasty. Following a brief intermission, a discussion of the great Pharaohs and their Queens of the XIX, XX, and XXI Dynasty including Seti I, Ramesses II, Merentaph, etc. will be examined from the biologic viewpoint. Disease, mummification, skeletal aging, craniofacial morphology, artistic realism, and the discovery of newly found artifacts will be reviewed.
